A Quarter of a mile off the post-road to Saratoga, and scarcely halfway up the hill which overlooks the town of C, in Washington county. New York, the attention of the traveler is attracted to a handsome two-story frame house, indicating from its surrounding conveniences the residence of one well to do in the world. It is the homestead of William Sherwood, owner of the grist-mill in the hollow, the merry click-clack of which tells of its proximity, as the stage rumbles along on its daily errand. Of the Sherwood family there were only the father, two sons, and one daughter alive. Amelia was the name of the only daughter Her mother died when she had just turned her seventh year, before which Mrs Sherwood had improved her mind by instilling into the heart of her daughter such instruction as would qualify her for the duties which she thought would at some future day devolve upon her It is well that we cannot penetrate the future, and read in chapters of the time to come what shall befall us. Had the Sherwoods known to what trials and sufferings their beloved daughter was to be subjected, they had perhaps been tempted to question the dealings of Providence although, to a mind gifted with more searching inquiry, the link between cause and effect would have readily been discovered.
