Alexander Dare Publishing Company, United States, 2004. Hardback. Book Condition: New. 231 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. A boy stares at a storm-swollen Mississippi waiting to hurl himself into the maelstrom of bountiful wreckage. He will know the instant when courage, purpose and good sense come together . . . waiting for the Lord to tell . . . when to jump. Thus the kaleidoscopic tale of Jean Perceval Hays begins. Born in 1874 in New Orleans, to a freed mulatto woman and a deserting white father, Percy is unschooled, but meets life s challenges head on, bolster by his spirit s innate intelligence and experienced lessons. A scoundrel by necessity, but a brave man seen in the larger scope, Percy is a man of deep ethics and loyalty to those deserving. In a sleek writing style, we read Percy s adventures - through the swamplands of Louisiana, up river to Tennessee, and then through Texas to the bullrings of Monterrey - where he introduces his heavy handed way of dealing with mean-spirited bulls and experiences his first of many loves. Then it is on to the Caribbean and to an inherited stint as captain of a pirate ship. Here he meets Matumbo, a Zulu tribesman, kidnapped by Arab traders, who saves Percy s life, causing Percy and Matumbo to be forever bonded. In Germany, Percy begins a life long career of smuggling South African diamonds with Matumbo s help. Matumbo then implores Percy to help him procure guns for his tribe to use against the De Beers agents and British mercenaries who have been raiding and slaughtering his people. Percy now enters a dangerous world with some of the most sophisticated business minds of Europe. Moving to South Africa, Percy joins the Zulu in raids...
